

KEEPING YOUR CASELOAD FROM TURNING INTO INFORMATION OVERLOAD.

BRING ORDER TO YOUR COURT FILES

Each new case that's opened is accompanied by a number of important documents, not to mention the immense data flow that follows. You know it's important to organize and manage these files, but it seems like you're buried in e-mail, transcripts and courtroom reports before you know it. We can help. We understand that legal professionals have unique technology needs. And that a simple suite of office software simply isn't enough. That's why our dedicated account managers will work with you to find a solution that's not only legal specific, but also tailored to the needs of your firm.

58% of legal professionals admit that the quality of their work suffers at times because they can't sort through the information they need fast enough.

From suit to judgment, the right litigation support software can help you manage your cases better. CDW offers the software that will provide everything you need to support your cases. Designed specifically for the business of law, litigation support software effectively manages and processes the large number of transcripts and documents typical of any case. It also allows you to mark up and analyze testimony in real time, giving you the ability to import, extract and convert files quickly for court presentations. LAW PreDiscovery™ software makes it easy to gain control over the complex mosaic of information each case presents. Now it's easy to track, organize and search transcripts, electronic evidence, documents and notes, and securely access cases over the Internet.

DISCOVERY SOLUTIONS

The efficient way to identify, secure and produce evidence.

Electronic data is fast becoming the key source of discoverable evidence in corporate litigation and regulation. Today more than 90 percent of documents are created electronically, and they require new discovery, retrieval and processing techniques. Discovery software can help your firm accelerate early case assessments and reduce the overall cost, time and risk of e-discovery, while enhancing the defensibility of the discovery process. Import, organize, manage, retrieve and share data more efficiently with LexisNexis Concordance®.
